

Hi there, I recently tried to report a front page of The Daily Star to IPSO. However, there were no options available on their website to report a paper for inciting crime against animals. I tried using the discrimination and harassment options but apparently, they don't include animals. Is there a reason you don't think it's worth protecting them?

I'm just an ordinary person with a healthy respect for animals, so please direct me somewhere where I can report things like this – and if there is nowhere, I'd again ask, why not?

I hope you'll consider this when you do your review.

If you need to put this on your website, I don't need anonymity. I'm not ashamed of caring for animals.

Many thanks

Kas.
